

Station Profiles – Home Origin Maps

The following station maps depict home origin locations of weekday BART customers who travel to the station from home. The maps are based on data from BART's 2008 Station Profile Study. The report text and data tables are available in a separate PDF file at www.bart.gov/profile.

The points on each map are color coded by mode of access to the BART station. The points are weighted to reflect average weekday ridership at the station. For example, an origin point with a weight of seven will appear on the map as seven points, randomly dispersed around the actual point of origin. Note that the number of trips may be underrepresented in cases where multiple trips originate at the same location. Refer to Appendix B of the 2008 Station Profile Study report for geocoding details.
