MORE PARKING CHANGES ON THE DUBLIN SIDE OF DUBLIN/PLEASANTON

Dear Customer:

Effective Saturday, December 17, AvalonBay will close approximately 400 of the 800 parking spaces located in the privately operated surface parking lot located on the Dublin side of the Dublin /Pleasanton Station.

The area is needed by AvalonBay to construct the residential development on the parking lot site. Several years ago the 1500 space Dublin/Pleasanton Station parking garage was built to replace all of the surface parking (plus an additional 500 spaces) located on the Dublin side of the station to prepare for this development. Because of the economy, the start of that project was delayed.

During the delay, AvalonBay agreed to use their property as a privately operated parking lot available for BART customers. The remaining 400 spaces in the AvalonBay-operated lot will continue to be available until the start of the next phase of construction.

To make up for some of the lost of parking resulting from the AvalonBay parking lot closure, BART has changed some Permit and Carpool spaces located in the Station's parking garage and adjacent surface lot to Daily Fee use. The new Fee parking will be located in the outside lot south of the parking structure and on the second and third floor areas of the parking garage. Please pay attention to the parking signs.
